Implementation of Legal Entity Identifier (LEI)

LEI (Legal Entity Identifier) is a global common code to identify an entity or a fund that is a party of financial transactions and it is allocated based on such entity's application. Following the decisions made by G20 and Financial Stability Board, the usage of LEI has been promoted mainly by U.S. and E.U. regulators in order to analyze financial transaction data efficiently and effectively.

In line with these international initiatives, Tokyo Stock Exchange, Inc. will start allocating LEI as LOU (Local Operation Unit) from 1st August 2014 in order to establish LEI allocation system in Japan under the amended Financial Instruments and Exchange Act.

Please look at the following JPX-LEI portal site for details.
