The consolidated operating results of the TSE group (the Company, consolidated subsidiaries and affiliated companies accounted for using the equity method) during the six months (from April 1, 2011 to September 30, 2011) were affected by the sluggish market conditions due to circumstances such as the Great East Japan Earthquake and concerns over European debt problems. The TSE group saw ordinary profit of ¥5,322 million (27.7% decrease year-on-year), quarterly net profit before taxes, etc. of ¥5,322 million (26.7% decrease year-on-year), and net income after taxes, etc. of ¥3,160 million (29.8% decrease year-on-year).

3 Assets and liabilities for hedging risks of securities trading TSE Group's consolidated subsidiaries Tokyo Stock Exchange, Inc. and Japan Securities Clearing Corporation (collectively, "Exchange") have established various systems including receiving clearing funds, based on the Financial Instruments and Exchange Act and the Exchanges' internal regulations, to hedge the risks of securities trading in the market. Japan Securities Clearing Corporation, as a clearing organization for financial instrument transactions, underwrites the liabilities and acquires the rights from the clearing participants that arise from the conclusion of a transaction when a securities trade is concluded in the market, and bears the risk of nonperformance of obligation by the clearing participants from the time the transaction is concluded until settlement is complete, and therefore receives clearing funds (margin funds for when-issued transactions, margin funds for derivatives, deposits for clearing funds, and deposits as collateral for facilitating settlement) from the clearing participants based on the Financial Instruments and Exchange Act and other laws and regulations. In addition, Tokyo Stock Exchange, Inc. bears the risk of brokers in securities trades from the nonperformance of obligations by trading participants, and therefore receives legal guarantee funds from the trading participants based on the Financial Instruments and Exchange Act and other laws and regulations. The assets for all of these deposits are cash or substituted securities (limited to those securities approved under internal regulations), which are kept segregated from other assets, with the cash portion shown separately under assets or liabilities for the respective purpose of the deposit. The market value of securities deposited in place of cash as of March 31, 2011, was as follows:

1) Margin funds for when-issued transactions

¥85 million

2) Margin funds for derivatives

¥793,546 million

3) Deposits for clearing funds

¥187,621 million

4) Deposits as collateral for facilitating settlement

¥100,090 million

5) Legal guarantee funds

¥1,386 million

In addition, Tokyo Stock Exchange, Inc. bears the risk of nonperformance of obligations by trading participants, and therefore receives deposits as trading participants guarantee from trading participants based on its internal regulations. The assets for these deposits are cash or substituted securities (limited to those securities approved under internal regulations), with the cash portion recorded as cash and bank deposits under assets, and as deposits received as trading participants guarantee under liabilities. The market value of securities deposited in place of cash as of March 31, 2011, was ¥2,319 million.

Tokyo Stock Exchange, Inc. has also concluded a loss compensation contract with Japan Securities Clearing Corporation with regard to clearing operations for cash transactions, as well as futures and options transactions. Under this contract, Tokyo Stock Exchange, Inc. (including other exchanges in the case of cash transactions) reimburses Japan Securities Clearing Corporation for losses incurred from the nonperformance of obligations by clearing participants that cannot be covered by the clearing participant's deposited

*3 Assets and liabilities for hedging risks of securities trading TSE Group's consolidated subsidiaries Tokyo Stock Exchange, Inc. and Japan Securities Clearing Corporation (collectively, "Exchange") have established various systems including receiving clearing funds, based on the Financial Instruments and Exchange Act as well as Exchange rules and regulations, to ensure confidence in securities trading in the market. In addition, Tokyo Stock Exchange, Inc. hedges the risk borne by entrustors in securities transactions due to the non-performance of obligations by trading participants, and therefore receives the Guarantee Funds from trading participants based on the Financial Instruments and Exchange Act and other laws and regulations. The assets for all of these deposits are cash or securities in lieu of money (limited to those securities approved under Exchange rules and regulations), which are kept segregated from other assets, with the cash portion shown separately under assets or liabilities for its respective deposit purpose.
