II. Change in organizational structure

The JPX corporate group is currently formulating its second medium-term management plan (FY2016-FY2018) and will change its organizational structure with effect on April 1, 2016 to ensure its steady implementation. The main changes are outlined below. Japan Exchange Group will announce its second medium-term management plan (FY2016-FY2018) in March 2016.

1. Promotion of asset formation by retail investors

New Financial Literacy Support departments will be set up in Tokyo Stock Exchange, Inc. (TSE) and Osaka Exchange (OSE) to strengthen promotion to retail investors and investor education for the purpose of supporting asset building by individuals.

2. Expansion of the derivatives market

With the aim of expanding the derivatives market, a new Derivatives Business Development department will be set up in OSE to strengthen the sales and marketing functions for derivatives. Along with this change, the Market Business Development department in TSE will be reorganized as a new Equities Business Development department.

3. Strengthening of foundations for global business

A new Global Strategy department will be set up in JPX to allow the corporate group to swiftly and adequately forge deeper ties with other exchanges, strengthen its overseas offices, and secure overseas business opportunities.

4. Strengthening of coordination on clearing and settlement

A Clearing & Settlement Development department will be set up in JPX to strengthen and facilitate coordination in the field of clearing and settlement among the corporate group. The new department will take over the coordination and planning functions of the current Clearing and Settlement department in TSE.
