Commencement of Free Trial for J-Quants for PRO (Tentative Name)

JPX Market Innovation & Research, Inc. is pleased to announce the commencement of a free trial for "J-Quants for PRO" (tentative name), aimed at providing institutional users with user-friendly access to financial data in the Japanese market, starting today, October 16. J-Quants for PRO is a service designed to support the discovery of new business opportunities and facilitate effective decision-making for our users, delivering data through various user-friendly channels such as APIs and SFTP.

The data sets to be offered through J-Quants for PRO include data that was previously made available on the JPX website but in less user-friendly formats, as well as data sets that were not previously accessible in historical formats. Additionally, data sets currently available through other channels will also be accessible via APIs.

During this free trial period, users will have the opportunity to explore these data sets and discover their value.
