As of November 5, 2024

Osaka Exchange, Inc.

Item	Details	Remarks
I. Purpose	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- In cases where an investor entrusts trading in futures and options (meaning Japanese Government Bond (JGB) futures, interest rate futures, index futures, commodity futures, securities options, options on JGB futures, index options, and options on commodity futures; the same shall apply hereinafter) to multiple trading participants, it will need to conduct settlement-related operations (meaning transfer of payment and deposit or refund of margin pertaining to futures and options; the same shall apply hereinafter) with each of these trading participants, which imposes an extremely large administrative burden on institutional investors and other market users.</li> <li>- In light of this, Osaka Exchange Inc. (OSE) has introduced give-up rules for futures and options in order to reduce administrative costs pertaining to settlement related operations and the required amount of margin for investors, thereby improving the convenience of futures and options traded on OSE.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Give-up rules have been adopted by major futures exchanges and other trading venues in the world.</li> </ul>
II. Definitions	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- A give-up is where an executing participant (as defined below) requests a carrying participant (as defined below) to clear and settle a give-up transaction (as defined below).</li> <li>- A take-up is where a carrying participant accepts a give-up from an executing participant.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Please refer to Appendix 1 for an illustration of a give-up.</li> <li>- Upon a take-up by a carrying participant, the transaction between OSE and the executing participant is terminated and a transaction with</li> </ul>

3. Give-up and Take-up	both the executing participant and the designated carrying participant (meaning a trading participant designated by a customer as its carrying participant; the same shall apply hereinafter). In addition, the executing participant, the customer, and the designated carrying participant shall enter into an agreement in advance specifying commission payments pertaining to give-up transactions and how to handle cases where a give-up does not become valid (such an agreement is referred to as a “give-up agreement” hereinafter). <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>– When an executing participant or carrying participant accepts entrustment of a give-up transaction or settlement pertaining to a give-up transaction from a broker based on the commission of brokerage from an applicant, a give-up agreement between the broker or applicant, the executing participant, and the carrying participant is not necessary. However, a give-up agreement between the applicant, the broker of the give-up transaction (or executing participant in cases where said applicant has entrusted the give-up transaction to them directly), and the broker of the settlement of the give-up transaction (or carrying participant in cases where said applicant has entrusted settlement pertaining to the give-up transaction to them directly) shall be necessary.</li> </ul> Note 1: A broker is an entity that has been commissioned to broker entrustments of give-up transactions or settlement pertaining to give-up transactions to trading participants. Note 2: An applicant is an entity that has commissioned brokerage of entrustments of give-up transactions or settlement pertaining to give-up transactions. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>– Whenever a customer entrusts a give-up transaction, said customer shall provide</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>– Trading participants may also use the standard agreement prepared by the Futures Industry Association (FIA).</li> <li>– Please refer to Appendix 2.</li> <li>– For confirmation numbers, OSE recommends</li> </ul>
