

Currency Hedged Index

Currency Hedged Indices provide the return of the target Indices when hedged for currency risk.

- Currency Hedged Indices provide the return of the target indices when hedged for currency risk, and are calculated using one month currency forward contracts to hedge the return of the base index.
- Two types of indices that use different hedging methods are calculated: one in which the forward contract value is adjusted on a monthly basis and one in which this value is adjusted on a daily basis. These indices apply a hedge ratio of 100%, and calculation is based on a methodology developed by S&P Dow Jones Indices.
- Currency Hedged Index is calculated on a daily basis.
